TO: Members of Temple B'nai Abraham
FROM: Stacey Rosenberg, Secretary

In accordance with Article XI, Section 2 of the Constitution and By-laws of the Congregation, the Nominating Committee will hold an open meeting for the purpose of receiving Members' written or oral nomination recommendations for the Committee's consideration.

We will be considering nominations for Nine (9) congregants to serve as Officers for a two-year term and Twelve (12) congregants to serve as Trustees for a three-year term. All positions will commence on March 1, 2019. Elections will be at the 166th Annual Meeting of the Congregation in January 2019.

The Open Meeting will be held at the Temple on Tuesday, October 30, 2018 at 7:00 PM

The State of the Garden State with Matt Katz, WNYC Reporter • Tom Moran, Star Ledger Editorial Page Editor • Mary Alice Williams, NJTV News Anchor

With possible power shifts in both House and Senate, the nation will be riveted on the November 6 election. And with a Senate seat open, all twelve of the State's congressional districts, and scores of municipal elections – including Livingston and Millburn – across New Jersey, it is a big election for the Garden State as well. Our regular panel of veteran New Jersey journalists returns to discuss the upcoming election, and, especially, what it means for New Jersey. Grounded in the decades of experiences each has covering the State, the conversation will abound with knowledge, insight, and plenty of humor. The audience is invited to participate in what will, as always, be an informative, stimulating and most worthwhile evening. Thursday, October 25, 7:30 PM

Myths, Legends and Magic in Judaism with Cantor Jessica F. Epstein

Golems, Liliths and Hamsas, oh my! This class will explore some of the most famous legendary creatures, people and stories in the folk tradition of Judaism. From Biblical amulet bowls to Gan Eden, we will read and delve deep into mysteries often heard of but never explained. No Hebrew required and open to all.

Thursdays, November 8, 15 & 29, 7:00 PM

Parashat HaShavuah

Join the lively discussion of legend and lore, the ancient world and the modern one, the Jewish people's feelings about its God, and God's feelings about His people. Through our reading of the weekly portion, and occasional forays into the traditional commentators, we seek not only to understand the profundities of Torah, but also to understand the world and ourselves a little better. Parallel English/Hebrew texts will be used. We hope you'll stay for services, but even if you can't, stop by for a weekly dose of Torah!

Saturdays, Parashat HaShavuah, from 9:00 AM to 9:45 AM

TBA Book Group with Rabbi Kulwin 2018 – 2019

Book Group members know that modern Jewish fiction falls mainly into three categories: books about Israel, books about the Holocaust and books about Jewish life in the Diaspora. In our twentieth year, we read works from each. Some are classics, some are new, and some approach their subject in unusual ways.

Israel

Thursday, October 4, 7:30 PM Esau by Meir Shalev

The Biblical rivalry of Jacob and Esau is the opening through which Shalev, one of Israel’s most celebrated novelists, chronicles the multigenerational Levi family, all bakers, from World War I through the mid-seventies. The twins have to share one pair of glasses; quite literally, they are the lens through which the story is told.

Thursday, November 1, 7:30 PM Sadness Is A White Bird by Moriel Rothman-Zecher

In Rothman-Zecher’s debut novel, 17-year-old Israeli American, Jonathan, returns to Israel, eager to join the army. Waiting for his induction, he becomes friendly with Israeli Arabs, Nimreen and Laith, twin children of his mother’s best friend. As their friendship deepens, his feeling toward Israel is no less strong, but it is not as simple as it once was.

Thursday, December 6, 7:30 PM Let It Be Morning by Sayed Kashuah

A young journalist, recently married and a new father, seeks a quieter life away from the city and buys a large house in his parents' hometown, an Arab village in Israel. Reviewers have written that Kashuah, an Israeli Arab who writes in Hebrew, is comparable to Orwell and Kafka in his ability to convey otherworldly futility.

History Through Text with Rabbi Kulwin

Each class is a stand-alone unit so that an inability to attend all (or even most) of the sessions will not be an impediment to an enjoyable and simulating learning experience.

Jews, Art and Jewish Art : The Ten Commandments insist that we are not to make graven images. Nevertheless, graphic arts—to say nothing of music, literature and other artistic forms—have long been associated with Jews and Jewish life. The Torah itself contains prose and poetry of unparalleled beauty; a Renaissance rabbi “proved” that all orchestra instruments were found in the Bible; and Marc Chagall is on anyone’s list of the greatest painters of the 20th Century. We will examine Jewish writings about art, and works of art themselves, to try to understand Judaism’s historic relationship with art, and the prominence art enjoys in Jewish life today.

- Art and the Torah—The Torah contains texts about art and many believe it is a work of art itself. We will look at both perspectives. Thursday, January 10, 7:30 PM
- Art and the Rabbis—Through the reading of Talmudic texts, we will learn about the unease the rabbis felt about art, even as many of them yet had a sense of aesthetic appreciation. Thursday, February 28, 7:30 PM
- Art and the Jewish Renaissance—Especially in Italy, Jews caught the Renaissance spirit, mining their own past for early examples of the most admired civic culture of the day. Thursday, March 14, 7:30 PM
- Jews and Music—Liturgical music, folk music, Mahler, Schoenberg, Copland...what makes it Jewish music? Tuesday, April 9, 7:30 PM
- Jews and Painting—Jewish themes, like Abraham’s near-sacrifice of Isaac, have long been subjects of the greatest western artists; many of those great artists were Jews. How did this happen? Thursday, May 16, 7:30 PM
- Art and the Holocaust—From before the war, from the camps, and certainly since, the Holocaust has inspired artistic works beyond number. Does this say something about the importance of art to the Jews? Thursday, June 13, 7:30 PM

A Historian Reflects on Israel's Past and Future

Professor David N. Myers

*Sadie and Ludwig Kahn Chair in Jewish History, UCLAThursday, March 28, 2019, 7:30 PM, at TBA

Israel was founded 70 years ago, but its future is as unknowable today as it was in 1948. Israel's army is the most powerful in the region. Recent governments have sought new strategic alliances, making friends with former enemies, and alienating longstanding allies. Its economy is one of the most robust in the world, even as economic disparity widens. The Occupation, majority-minority relations, a serious housing shortage, innumerable matters of "church and state" and other domestic matters fuel ongoing tumult. The struggle to remain both democratic and Jewish grows more and more complex.

What is Israel's future? Prof. David Myers, a frequent visitor to Temple B'nai Abraham, believes that to understand Israel's future, it is important to understand its past. Author of numerous definitive works on Jewish and Israeli history, a frequent visitor to Israeli universities, and commentator on contemporary Israel, Myers will explore what Israel's history can teach us about its future, both that which we can know, and that for which we hope.

Prof. David Myers has been on the faculty of UCLA since 1991, and has served as both Chair of its Department of History and Director of its Center for Jewish Studies. For the year 2017-2018, Myers was also President of the Center for Jewish History in New York City. One of his generation's most respected Jewish historians, Myers is the author or editor of fifteen books, has written hundreds of scholarly and popular articles, and has lectured at universities throughout North America, as well as in France, Germany, Russia, The Netherlands, and, of course, Israel.

First Stop...

The Museum of the American Revolution

We will audio tour the Museum's core exhibit, which explores the ideas, events and the legacies of America's revolutionary beginnings. The tour features the voices of Phyllis Wheatley, the first published African American female poet, and Baroness Frederika von Reidesel, who aided the wounded and journaled her experience. An introductory film highlights the drama of the war, digital interactivities and hands-on experiences. After the tour, we will hear a 30-minute lecture on "Revolutionary Women Writing About War" while we eat a box lunch.

Second Stop...

Rube Goldberg Exhibit at the Museum of Jewish History

We will tour the comprehensive exhibit of Rube Goldberg's work—from his earliest works and machine invention drawings to his Pulitzer Prize-winning cartoons. Goldberg chronicled almost every aspect of modern American life from fashion and sports to gender, politics and international affairs. The exhibit explores the artistry and wit which made him a household name.
